

Mirrabooka – Joondalup Family Support Network

A partnership of agencies working together to support families with children in their care and young people up to 25 years.

We provide central access to a range of support services, ensuring each family or individual can select the mix of services they wish to receive on a voluntary basis whilst maintaining confidentiality of client information.

Services include

Support for families, including support for carers, parents and domestic violence

Mental health and specialist counselling services

Youth support

Migrant and Aboriginal specific services

Housing

The Family Support Network consists of a variety of local agencies and services who, in gaining consent from the family, may share specific information for the purposes of more effective coordination, accountability and service delivery to families. A list of these current partner agencies is available at wafsn.org.au/locations/mirrabooka-joondalup-family-support-network

WA Family Support Networks are funded by the Government of Western Australia's Department of Communities.

What we do

- We assist children, young people and their families to get the support they need without having to search for services themselves.
- Our approach to gathering information ensures families or individuals are not having to retell their story to each service they are referred to.
- We quickly connect families or individuals to the most appropriate support services.
- We work alongside families and individuals to coordinate an immediate response to complex issues, building on each of their strengths and capacity to receive support.
- We work in partnership with Yorgum (our lead Aboriginal Community Controlled Organisation) and various other leaders, Elders and community - based groups to continuously improve the services we offer to families.
- We also provide an additional level of intensive case management for families who require support for specific needs and to ensure their children are safe at home (via Departmental referral only).
